

Plant roots provide a very large surface area for nutrients to be absorbed

A sticky biofilm (complex mass of micro-organisms) covering the roots helps trap fine particles and absorbs nutrients from the water